when purpose works

2011 annual report and donor list
Dear Friends,

Every day, caregivers at Aurora Health Care touch the lives of thousands of people who rely on us for good health and well-being. Some interactions are life-changing experiences, while others are simple acts of help and kindness. These moments are replicated many times in communities across eastern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

A social worker arranges financial counseling for a fragile senior citizen. A nurse sees the joy on a mother’s face as she cradles her newborn for the first time. A doctor witnesses the emotional embrace between a husband and wife after a cancer diagnosis. These are precious moments in the lives of those we serve.

It is a privilege to be part of an organization where caregivers are helping children, adults and families in ways that are truly inspiring. Through the Aurora Health Care Foundation, we are able to provide much-needed funding for programs and services that reach people at every stage of their life.

Generous support from our donors helps us provide patients with excellent medical treatments, state-of-the-art technologies, a holistic model of care, healing environments and much more. Our donors are helping to ensure each patient and family member has a care experience that is very personal and special.

In 2011, our foundation donors collectively contributed more than $9.6 million. These generous gifts have a profound impact on supporting our purpose of helping people live well.

On behalf of our patients, thank you for making a gift to the Aurora Health Care Foundation. I am pleased to share with you in the following pages a few examples of how every gift can change a life!

Always,

Cristy Garcia-Thomas

Every gift can change a life!
The gift of life
times two

For expectant parents, the news that you’re having twins can be exciting and overwhelming at the same time. Laurie and Santiago Navarro – first-time parents – were overjoyed to learn they would welcome two girls in spring 2011.

“We couldn’t wait to dress them in pink and purple,” said Laurie.

Then, only 22 weeks into the pregnancy, the couple received devastating news. During a routine ultrasound, one of the twins showed an abnormal blood flow. The doctor delivered the sobering facts: Baby A’s umbilical cord was flowing in reverse, which meant she was working harder to stay alive. Soon it would be too much for her heart. Because they were identical twins, the other baby would also die.

Among the options presented to the Navarros was waiting to see if the babies could make it to a viable size and then, once delivered, have a long stay in the neonatal intensive care unit (NICU).

“We decided to wait and see if they could make it to 26½ weeks,” said Laurie, who was ordered on bed rest and admitted to Aurora West Allis Medical Center. There, the doctors and caregivers kept a close watch on her. “At 26 weeks and 4 days, Baby A’s heart gave in. I was rushed into surgery for an emergency C-section.”

Less than 20 minutes later, Emilia and Simona were born weighing 1.6 and 1.7 pounds, respectively. After five months in the NICU, the babies were strong enough to go home with oxygen, monitors and feeding tubes. “This is where Aurora VNA steps in, bringing the NICU to your home,” said Laurie.
Aurora Visiting Nurse Association caregivers met the new parents at the hospital, trained them on the equipment, coordinated the doctor’s prescriptions, and worked with nurses to process insurance paperwork and schedule delivery of equipment to their home. The visiting nurses set up therapy appointments as soon as the babies arrived home. “We had speech and physical therapy one week out of the hospital. Aurora VNA kept in contact with us to stay updated on the babies’ needs,” Laurie added.

“If we hadn’t received support from the nurses and caregivers, our babies might not be as strong. They could still be in the hospital today. The Aurora VNA provides support for families in extreme medical situations, like ours. Today, our babies are developmentally on target and expected to make a complete recovery.”

In 2011, generous gifts from donors, corporations and foundations enabled the Aurora Visiting Nurse Association to serve more than 2,300 patients each day throughout eastern Wisconsin. As the only dedicated and specialized pediatric home care provider in the state, our nurses provided care for nearly 1,200 children last year, including Emilia and Simona Navarro. It’s because of donor support that our most vulnerable patients can be cared for at home.

“Without Aurora VNA, our babies might not be as strong.”
— Laurie Navarro

Proud parents Santiago and Laurie Navarro are happy to have their family together at home after a lengthy stay in the neonatal intensive care unit (NICU). Everything needed for the girls’ care is arranged through Aurora VNA and delivered directly to their home.
Enhancing cancer care for our patients

A generous gift from the Gardetto family helped Aurora St. Luke’s Medical Center purchase the RapidArc and Large Field IMRT software to enhance cancer services.

This technology is significantly changing the way we care for our patients with the most extensive diseases. It has reduced the treatment time for a patient and eliminated the need to reposition them throughout their radiation treatment sessions.

This gift is making an immediate impact on the quality of care that our cancer patients receive. One patient who received the benefit of this state-of-the-art technology shares his appreciation.

“Cancer is scary and so are the treatments that follow,” said Lee Schaefer. “The radiation treatment was like having an X-ray. It was that simple. If I had to sit there for up to 45 minutes for every treatment, without being able to move, I probably wouldn’t have made it.”

Often patients in Lee’s situation need to be sedated because of pain and inability to lay on the table for the 45 minutes required for a more traditional radiation treatment. Because of the Gardetto family’s generosity, his treatment time for each procedure went from 45 minutes to three minutes. Since then, he has received 37 treatments, which means this gift saved him 25 hours of radiation treatments.

Aurora St. Luke’s Radiation Oncology department estimates 100 patients will receive their cancer treatment with this new method in a year. This single gift is making a difference in the lives of so many patients and helps us provide better care and comfort for individuals battling cancer.

“On behalf of myself and other cancer patients, thank you to the Gardetto family. Their gift makes the cancer journey easier,” said Lee.

Lee Schaefer is one of many people who benefit from the enhanced radiation treatment at Aurora St. Luke’s Medical Center, thanks to generous donors Nan Gardetto and her mother, Judy.
Providing quality health care access

The mission of Aurora Walker’s Point Community Clinic is to provide quality health care to uninsured/underserved individuals residing in Milwaukee who lack access to health care.

The clinic strives to deliver practical, cost-effective, yet quality care and utilize multidisciplinary resources to improve each patient’s overall health. Because life circumstances often determine quality of health, cultural sensitivity of patients and families who rely on Aurora Walker’s Point is integral to the care provided at the clinic.

One patient, now a Milwaukee County bus driver, was treated for diabetes symptoms at the clinic.

Before he secured what he called the “job of a lifetime,” he had to pass a physical. It was at an Aurora occupational clinic that the patient learned he had diabetes. Until his diabetes was under control, he would not be considered for the bus driver position.

The Aurora Walker’s Point caregivers informed him that it was entirely possible to move toward a healthier state and become eligible for employment. They also contacted the employer on his behalf, asking if they would remain open to hiring him once his health improved. It took a few months, but caregivers at the clinic supported him on the path to healing so he could pass the physical exam and secure employment. Today, his bus route passes the clinic and some of the caregivers who assisted him are among his regular riders.

This goes back to Aurora Health Care’s purpose – we help people live well. In this gentleman’s case, Aurora caregivers remedied his immediate health issue. In the process, we also connected him with a primary care physician and helped him secure his dream job with benefits.

For 20 years, the integrated, holistic approach at Aurora Walker’s Point Community Clinic has meant a better life for thousands of residents.

Without the continued support from many individual donors and corporate supporters, such as the Assurant Health Corporation, access to these vital services in the community would not be possible.
Breast cancer survivors think beyond pink

While watching her patients complete the “medical triathlon” of surgery, chemotherapy and radiation therapy, Aurora Sinai Medical Center breast surgeon Judy Tjoe, MD, always envisioned supporting breast cancer survivors in a different kind of triathlon – one that would allow them to feel alive in a whole new way.

Breast cancer survivors can struggle with weight gain, depression and decreased stamina. Dr. Tjoe’s goal was to encourage and assist breast cancer survivors to regain physical fitness after cancer treatment. In founding Team Phoenix, Dr. Tjoe provides an opportunity for survivors to train for a sprint distance triathlon. As part of this team, the triathletes are encouraged to adopt healthy lifestyle behaviors and improve their prognosis and quality of life. Starting in 2012, these athletes are invited to collect individualized data for research in exercise and cardio-oncology.

“Our breast cancer survivors are not just training for their first sprint triathlon. Our hope is that our athletes, during this journey, also regain a sense of being alive and strong during the training process and they learn to be comfortable with their bodies again,” says Dr. Tjoe.

In preparation for the Danskin Triathlon, consisting of a 1/2-mile swim, 12-mile bike ride and a 3.1-mile run, Team Phoenix participants complete a 12-week training program coordinated by a professional triathlon trainer. In addition, Aurora Health Care volunteers who are triathletes or passionate runners, bikers or swimmers, train and motivate patients to maintain a healthy lifestyle after their cancer treatment.

All 13 members of Team Phoenix completed the Danskin Triathlon on August 21, 2011, in Pleasant Prairie, Wis. They were grateful for this opportunity to begin a new chapter in their lives. In the words of one participant: “As a breast cancer survivor, you can’t sit around and talk about ‘what if.’ My attitude was, ‘I have cancer, what’s next?’ Training for the Danskin Triathlon was proactive for my health. It was a great experience.”

This program is funded entirely by charitable donations through Aurora Health Care’s Pink Possible (formerly Think Pink) campaign. Additional support was provided by Aurora Pharmacy locations, Panera Bread and hair salons around the state. Donations paid for professional coaching, lectures on nutrition, equipment and facility rentals, bike transportation and race entrance fees.
Excellence in patient care extends beyond the walls of our medical centers and clinics. In the communities we serve, we are part of a larger network of support to ensure the best care for each individual.

A successful “Evening in the Garden” event at Aurora Medical Center in Manitowoc County raised more than $23,000 for the Patient Transportation Fund. This fund helps patients travel to their cancer treatments at the hospital and ensures that transportation costs are affordable.

Gerald Schmidt is grateful for the transportation service. Following a skin cancer diagnosis, Gerald completed 35 radiation treatments, nine chemotherapy sessions and hydration therapy three times a week.

“My two daughters are doing the best they can to drive me to my appointments, when they can fit it in their work schedules. Otherwise, I have to depend on the van,” said Gerald. “I certainly appreciate the van service. The drivers are courteous and go out of their way to help. I never would have been able to make my appointments on time, if at all, without this service.”

Patient comfort and convenience is one of Aurora Health Care’s priorities. Continued support from caregivers and donors, such as the Ruth St. John & John Dunham West Foundation, Inc., enables us to offer this service to patients in need.

“I certainly appreciate the van service. I never would have been able to make my appointments on time, if at all, without this service.”

— Gerald Schmidt

Last year, more than 250 patients benefited from the transportation services provided at Aurora Medical Center in Manitowoc County. This translates to more than 3,000 van trips made throughout the county.
“The speed had everything to do with how I am today. You guys saved my life. I can’t be more grateful than that.”

— Ed Jahneke

Cardiac crisis prompts immediate action

When every minute counts, the care you need is only minutes away.

For Ed Jahneke of Kenosha, the words ‘one call does it all’ pretty much summarize the response to his urgent medical crisis.

Ed suffered a heart attack. As a STEMI* patient, he suffered the sudden formation of a coronary artery blood clot. Because he needed the care of a 24-hour catheterization lab, Ed was transported from Aurora Medical Center in Kenosha to Aurora St. Luke’s Medical Center in Milwaukee. It was imperative that he arrive at Aurora St. Luke’s in less than 90 minutes for an angioplasty in what’s known as ‘door-to-balloon’ time.

While in Kenosha, the medical team immediately called Flight for Life. Aurora Medical Center in Kenosha was the first hospital to work with Flight for Life on the STEMI protocol. One call alerts all medical transport teams to move the patient as quickly as possible.

“The speed had everything to do with how I am today. You guys saved my life. I can’t be more grateful than that,” said Ed, who used the cardiac rehabilitation services in Kenosha during his recovery.

Donor support enables us to provide cardiac care close to home and respond quickly in emergency situations. For Ed, the benefit of Aurora’s integrated health care system included surgery at Aurora St. Luke’s and outpatient rehabilitation at Aurora Medical Center – close to his home.

At Aurora Medical Center in Kenosha, the best equipment, programs and services are available for patients in a cardiac emergency through generous support from our donors.

*STEMI is an acronym for ST segment elevation myocardial infarction, which is a type of heart attack. Once a STEMI is determined by an electrocardiogram (ECG) test, immediate care is needed.
Strength through collaboration

Aurora Health Care Foundation raises funds that directly benefit and support our patients. Our mission to help people live well is made possible by individuals, corporate and private foundations, and members of the communities in which we serve.

Fund disbursements made in 2011 from the Aurora Health Care Foundation totaled nearly $14.5 million. With these dollars, we were able to make capital improvements, such as the expansion of the oncology center at Aurora Medical Center in Kenosha. From diagnosis to treatment and survivorship programs, it’s important to provide all of these services in one place. The expansion of oncology services fulfills a need for many of our patients from the greater Kenosha area.

Dedicated caregivers in the obstetrics center at Aurora Sinai Medical Center serve both mothers and their babies through Wisconsin’s largest midwifery practice and downtown’s only Level III Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU). With more than 3,000 deliveries at Aurora Sinai each year, improved services include community education and support groups.

Because of donor support, Aurora Walker’s Point Community Clinic now operates in a larger facility that enables our caregivers to serve 1,000 more patients each year – an increase of 20 percent. The Clinic enables Aurora to increase access for those patients with the greatest need and, in many cases, the greatest difficulty in finding a medical home. This is critical because of the growing number of people in the Milwaukee area who are uninsured or underinsured.

At Aurora St. Luke’s Medical Center, more than $2 million was spent in purchasing gastrointestinal (GI) scopes. Our flagship hospital, Aurora St. Luke’s, is a regional medical center where we serve the greatest number of patients throughout the Aurora Health Care system.

These are just a few examples of how philanthropic gifts make a difference to each patient who chooses Aurora for their health care needs. We can only achieve this success through engaging friends and partners. Together, we can do more to build healthier communities throughout eastern Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

For the year ending 2011, there were 642 requests submitted for consideration of foundation funding equaling $14,492,773. Disbursements included capital improvements, but also supported clinical services and caregiver education to improve the patient experience. More than $300,000 in charity care was paid for by the foundation and included the cost of clinical services, mostly mammograms, for uninsured and underinsured patients.

Richard Kellar, president of Aurora West Allis Medical Center, presented a bouquet of roses to Kim D., recognizing her as the first baby born at the hospital. The Evening of Promise event celebrated the medical center’s first 50 years in the community.
Being in the hospital can be a scary experience for a child. Thanks to the generosity of Caterpillar, Inc., more than 200 children at Aurora St. Luke’s South Shore will have a stuffed animal to comfort them. Since 1997, Bucyrus/Caterpillar employees have donated more than 4,000 stuffed animals!
More than 270 walkers and runners joined forces in Oshkosh to raise more than $10,000 to benefit the Vince Lombardi Cancer Clinic in Oshkosh – serving cancer patients in Oshkosh and surrounding communities.
Over the course of four November days, J. Pat Miller from 94.5 Lake FM walked 112 miles from Milwaukee to Green Bay to support Aurora Family Service’s Family-to-Family Thanksgiving. Because of the generosity of our Family-to-Family Thanksgiving donors, more than 46,000 families have benefited from the holiday meal program.
Aurora Lakeland Medical Center a $100,000 check to expand cardiac telemonitoring services. During the past 26 years, the Benefit Ball Committee has raised a total of $1,259,155 to bring state-of-the-art equipment and services to the hospital.

Aurora Walker’s Point Community Clinic treated more than 3,200 patients last year and provided social services to an additional 500 people. Thanks to our generous donors, the largest free clinic in the state for the uninsured was able to meet the needs of more people.
The McGMO Charity Golf Event raised $50,000 to benefit patients at the Vince Lombardi Cancer Clinic at Aurora Lakeland Medical Center. Pictured are the event founders, Tim McGregor, Mike Grover, Lori Grover, John Monroe and Kim O’Keefe, along with Aurora Lakeland Medical Center and Aurora Memorial Hospital of Burlington President Vicki Lewis.

Dr. AJ and Julie Capelli were recognized at the 2nd Annual Infinity Ball in Kenosha for their many years of service in the community. The event helped to raise $53,000 to benefit the patients and families who rely on Aurora Medical Center in Kenosha.
Generous donations to Aurora Family Service’s Family-to-Family Thanksgiving provided 3,000 families with all of the ingredients for a traditional holiday meal. One grateful resident said, “It’s hard to find the right words. I was so very thankful that I cried when I got home. Now I can cook a Thanksgiving meal.”

Kradwell School seniors gathered together for their first picture as high school graduates. Donor sponsorships helped to provide scholarships for Kradwell students whose families could not otherwise afford it. Kradwell serves 5th to 12th grade students who benefit from a highly structured, individualized plan for their academic, emotional and behavioral growth.
On a chilly December night, families, friends and caregivers united at the Tree of Angels event at Aurora Zilber Family Hospice in Wauwatosa to remember and celebrate the memories of loved ones who have passed away.
